VINICIUS DE MORAES RECORDS FOR ARCHIVE OF HISPANIC LITERATURE

Noted Brazilian poet Vinicius de Moraes recorded from his poetry for the Library's Archive of Hispanic Literature on Tape in Rio de Janeiro on August 21. The reading and recording session was arranged by Paul Wheeler, U.S.I.S. Public Affairs Officer in Rio de Janeiro.

This latest recording for the Archive was made possible through the cooperation of the Library of Congress Office in Rio de Janeiro and the special efforts of Lucy Rocha Souza, who is assisting the Latin American, Portuguese, and Spanish Division in its program to secure more recordings of contemporary Brazilian poets and authors. Mr. Philippoff's career at the Library of Congress began in 1950 when he joined the staff as a Librarian/Research Analyst; he retired in 1965. During his years at the Library, he received a Superior Service Award.

Born in St. Petersburg, Russia, Mr. Philippoff studied at the Polytechnic Institute of Peter the Great, where he received an advanced degree in electrical engineering in 1918. He then became a teacher at the Institute and later at the Higher Medical Institute in St. Petersburg.

From 1939 to 1944, he directed the electrical engineering section of the correspondence school of the American YMCA in Paris. From 1945 to 1949, he worked with the World YMCA organizing the distribution of supplies to displaced persons and prisoners of war.

A member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers since 1924, Mr. Philippoff was the author of numerous technical papers in several languages.

DEATH OF STAFF MEMBER

Balys Paramskas, Reviser in the Preliminary Cataloging Section, Descriptive Cataloging Division, died on Wednesday, October 2, at Georgetown Hospital in Washington, D.C. He was 67.

Born in Latvia, Mr. Paramskas studied law and economics at the University of Vytautas the Great in Kaunas, Lithuania, where he was a student leader, serving as president of a democratic liberal student corporation. He was employed by the Varpas Publishing Co. of Kaunas, and, until the Soviet occupation in 1940, was general manager of the Varpas firm which published books and the second largest daily newspaper in Lithuania. He held other positions in a bank, a law firm, and managed his own publishing company before fleeing the occupation in 1944. While a refugee in France, Mr. Paramskas worked in a paper research plant and was active in the Lithuanian Society.

He came to Washington in 1951 and worked for the Capitol Printing Ink Co. until 1958, when he joined the staff of the Library of Congress as a Library Assistant in the Law Library. In 1959 he transferred to the Preliminary Cataloging Section, Descriptive Cataloging Division, as a Preliminary Cataloger and Searcher. He was promoted to Senior Searcher and Cataloger in 1962 and to Reviser in 1965.

Mr. Paramskas was active in the Washington chapter of the Lithuanian American Society and served for three years as its president in the early 1950's. He is survived by his wife, Natalie Lelejavite, of Washington, D.C.

RETIREMENT

Edwin G. Beal, Jr., Assistant Chief of the Orientalia Division, retired from the Library of Congress on September 20 after more than 32 years of service.

Born in Bucyrus, Ohio, Mr. Beal received a bachelor's degree from Ohio Wesleyan University in 1933, and masters (1933) and doctoral (1950) degrees from Columbia University.

He joined the Library staff in September 1941 as a Cataloger of Chinese books. After the outbreak of war in December of that year, he and other members of the small Orientalia staff packed rare Asian materials for shipment to safekeeping outside the Library and microfilmed the catalogs of the Orientalia Division as they existed at that time.

Early in 1942, he was assigned to work with the Japanese collection, where, for five months, he was the only person in the Library providing reference service in Japanese materials. During the next few years, he gave special attention to building the Library's collections of Japanese census materials and vital statistics and instituted the Library's first author and title control over its Japanese holdings. At the same time, with assistance from the American Council of Learned Societies, he established the Japanese Union Catalog by securing and interfiling cards for Japanese books held by a number of American institutions.

In 1949, Mr. Beal visited Japan under the auspices of the U.S. Department of the Army as a member of the Education Exchange Survey Group with a specific assignment to study the problems that American graduate students and research workers would face in postwar Japan. The group submitted to General MacArthur its recommendations for solving these problems.

After his return to the United States, he organized, planned, and participated with Cecil H. Uyehara, now with the Agency for International Development, U.S. Department of State, in the compilation of the Checklist of Archives in the Japanese Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Tokyo, Japan, 1868-1945, Microfilmed for the Library of Congress, 1949-1951, which was published by the Photoduplication Service in 1954; he later helped to compile the Checklist of Microfilm Reproductions of Selected Archives of the Japanese Army, Navy, and Other Government Agencies, 1868-1945, published by Georgetown University Press in 1959.

Mr. Beal was responsible for the assembly of complete sets of the basic journals for the study of China, and their availability on microfilm. The resulting films, which were produced during the years 1958-1960, had a wide sale both in the United States and abroad.

Early in 1953, Mr. Beal was appointed to the Library's new Orientalia Processing Committee, which devoted most of its time during the following four years to developing, in conjunction with the American Library Association, rules for the cataloging of publications in Chinese, Japanese, and Korean.

A founding member of the Association for Asian Studies, which was established in 1948 as the Far Eastern Association, he has served at various times as associate editor of the association's journal, as a member of its Board of Directors from 1954 to 1956, as the first review editor for works in Asian languages, as the first compiler of the "Notes and News" section (which has since evolved into Asian Studies Newsletter), as Chairman from 1963 to 1966 of the Committee on American Library Resources on the Far East (since 1967, the Committee on East Asian Libraries) whose Newsletter he initiated in 1963, as a member of the Executive Committee of the Chinese Materials and Research Aids Service Center (established in 1964 as a subsidiary of the Association, and now an independent corporation) and, since 1972, as a member of the China and Inner Asia Regional Council. In this last capacity, he is recruiting authors for "state-of-the-field" articles to appear in the Journal of Asian Studies during the next few years.

In the past three years, Mr. Beal has served as a member of the Advisory Committee of the Center for Chinese Research Materials, Association of Research Libraries, and as Chairman of the Language Committee of the interagency CETA (Chinese-English Translation Assistance) Group.

Mr. Beal has been appointed Honorary Consultant in East Asian Bibliography to the Library of Congress for a three-year term beginning September 20. On the occasion of his retirement, more than 200 friends gathered in the Whittall Pavilion to recall events of the past and to wish him well in his new status. [Additional biographical information was published in the May 12, 1966 issue of the LC Information Bulletin at the time Mr. Beal was appointed Assistant Chief.]

NEW REFERENCE WORKS

L'Art Oral Traditionnel Bantu: Eléments Bibliographiques, by Rwakazina Kamasa (Lubumbashi, Zaïre, 1973. 53 p.) is a bibliography of traditional African oral art. Central Africa is the focal area with Zaïre receiving the most coverage. The contents are arranged by general studies, oral prose, oral poetry, and rhymed prose, and there is an author index. Excluded from the bibliography are works by Africans written in European languages and those works mainly inspired by European models. A copy is available for consultation in the African Section, General Reference and Bibliography Division.

Also available for consultation in the African Section is Contribution à la Bibliographie Nationale du Rwanda 1965-1970, edited by Albert Lévesque (Moncton, Imprimerie Acadienne, 1974. 542 p.), which is a collection of references to Rwanda's literary and scientific production from January 1965 to December 1969. The Centre de Bibliographie Rwandaise of the Université Nationale du Rwanda has collected, analyzed, and described 4,535 monographs and periodical articles, representing 75 to 80 percent of all publications issued in Rwanda during this period. The bibliography is classified under broad subject headings according to the Dewey Decimal Classification System and includes title and author-subject indexes, plus lists of periodicals indexed, institutes, organizations, and Rwanda libraries cited, together with their symbols, and a list of periodicals published in Rwanda.

L'Imprimerie Acadienne, Ltée de Moncton, New Brunswick, has produced 400 copies of the Contribution by photographic process; 100 copies will be distributed free of charge and 300 will be for sale at the Librarie Universitaire de l'Université Nationale du Rwanda, Butare, Afrique Centrale (B.P. 117).

Gordon R. Willey and Jeremy A. Sabloff's A History of American Archaeology (San Francisco, W. H. Freeman and Co. 1974. 252 p. E61.W67 1974b) is a new addition to the reference collection of the Main Reading Room. This work is an intellectual history tracing the development of the discipline of archaeology in the Americas from 1492 to the present. Its concern is with theory, method, and field operations, rather than the substantive findings of archaeology. Numerous photographs, drawings, charts, and maps illustrate the text. An especially useful feature of A History of American Archaeology is its 25-page bibliography. [Elizabeth Jenkins]

The third edition of the Intergovernmental Bureau for Informatics' International Directory of Computer and Information System Services (London, Europa Publications, Ltd., 1974. 636 p. QA74.I65 1974) has been added to the Main Reading Room reference collection. The directory describes the information services available in nearly 3,000 institutions in the public and private sectors in about 100 countries. It is arranged alphabetically by country with indexes of institutions and by type of computer installation. Entries under each country are arranged in several categories: national centers, education and training institutions, universities and colleges, government establishments, research institutions, consultants, and service bureaus. The information provided for each computer service generally includes its name, address, telephone number, and chief officer; a listing of the computer installations in operation, including contemplated equipment; the coding languages used; services available; fields of application; and training courses offered. The medal was originally recommended by Edward Connery Lathem, Dartmouth Dean of Libraries and Librarian of the College, and was sanctioned by the college's board of trustees to coincide with the bicentennial anniversary of the institution's librarianship. The first librarian of Dartmouth College was appointed in 1773, four years after the chartering and three years after the founding of the college.

The medal, which was designed by Rudolph Ruzicka, internationally celebrated graphic artist, portrays the figure of Athena and also bears the inscription, "to honor achievement in creating reference works outstanding in both quality and significance." The ALA has been accorded complete, independent authority by the college to establish specific criteria for the granting of the medal and, in all ways, to govern its bestowal.
